

I am so angry I cannot contain it any longer! The morals of this country has gone! After viewing the halftime show of the Superbowl Sunday night, I'm thoroughly convinced of that fact. I have a granddaughter who enjoys sports a lot. And, of course, she watched the game along with the other 100 million people. She hasn't been exposed to all that "bumping and grinding" that she witnessed! Jackson and Timberlake took the cake though! The ripping of Janet Jackson's top and exposure of her bare breast looked as though it was a well rehearsed part of their "act." Someone needs to reprimand the people responsible for this lewd performance. Not everyone enjoys such filth. Everyone from the top brass down to the little guys should be fined heavily. I guess some people will do anything to get publicity, even if it is "immoral."

Please investigate this matter thoroughly!

Sincerely,
Brenda Roach
